Heat Calculator Manual Version:

*Volume: is the cubic footage of the area to be heated ({length} x {width} x {height}).

Temperature Rise: is the difference between the desired indoor temperature and the average outdoor temperature.

Insulation Factor: is a variable that accounts for the building's insulation quality.

Common values are:

- 4 for poor insulation
- 3 for average insulation
- 2 for good insulation
